EDITOR NEWS:

It is hardly folly to shut our eyes to what may be called the farmer's movement in this country. It is a menace to existing conditions and threatens a modification, if not a revolution, of our financial practices.

The war and the necessities of the government for large revenues in its protection, changed our whole financial system thirty years ago. It led to the issue of legal tender notes by the government, and later, the creation of national banks authorized to issue notes for circulation. These issues added to gold and silver in circulation, produced what was alleged to be a redundant currency, and the great aim was to reduce the volume of circulation, so as to produce specie payments.

Strong for this end, a mistake, the fruits of which we are now reaping, was committed, and we are now suffering from a want of sufficient circulating medium. We went too fast.

A political revolution is now in progress. Many affect to believe it is ephemeral and will soon pass away.
This is a great, and may be an, infortunate error.

This revolution began but little more than one year ago. An organization exists carrying to-day upon its rolls 1,200,000 voters. It has elected two United States Senators and a number of Congressmen distinctively classified as the product of the political feature of the financial organization. This is a small part of its rapid and successful work. It has influenced and given its pen and character to the legislature of Kentucky chosen on the 31 day of August. It has effected the object of its organization through its distinctive candidates. It has equally reached its aim through the choice of nominees of the old parties, who belong to the Alliance and are full sympathizers with it. An army of lecturers are abroad in the land addressing its membership in secret meetings in school houses every where. One thousand and newspapers are printing its platform and distributing their circulation to every neighborhood and hamlet. A national bureau well equipped has been established and is disseminating information, and giving direction to the movement. State after state is being organized, and it can not be doubted that the legislatures of all the States, as well as the lower houses of Congress will before long, be under its influence.

to its triumph of fight. He is divided as to whether it shall be through an independent political organization, or through a political party now existing.
He sees that the legislative party is not to be considered in this respect. He is advanced in detail on the great Republican leaders. After slaying Impulse in Kansas, he is sharpening his knife for John Sherman in Ohio. He is unable to distinguish why it is a more representative thing to lend money to the farmer on supposed good security, than to lend millions to the Nicaragua Canal Company on worthless bonds, which the latter statesman favored in the last Congress. He has fully opened his eyes to the fact that the country power through the Republican party, which has all along been in trusted agent, has enacted all the laws, and shaped all the policies, which he complains, and has imposed upon him all the burdens under which he groans. He sees that the alliance of that party are the anti-thetical of all Alliance teachings. He sees from that party in horror and horror it as a public enemy.

as to the Democratic party he is devoting. The farmer Democratic anti-socialist joins to its history from the beginning. He challenges the Alliance brother to point out any legislation in one hundred years by that party, that is of a class nature, or adverse to the names of the people. He stoutly and truthfully argues that it has always been a foe to monopoly, and if restored to power and given the opportunity, it could effect all the relief possible. He appeals to his Republican brother to seek that relief from this long tried friend of the people.

Whether may be the result of the debate in the end, the fact remains that society is more deeply disturbed than ever before, (excepting only the war period.) Whether the People's Party drawing its sustenance from the Farmer's Alliance, succeeds as such or not, the seeds are planted that must produce crop soon. Political parties must meet and deal with the issues raised.

Deep seated discontent prevails among the agricultural and laboring classes.
It is not the growth of a day, but of years.
Lean pocket books are the lot of farmers. He has abundance of the harvest, but disappointment at the market day.
Great bales of corn lie in his barns awaiting sale at twelve cents per bushel, and are even harmed for fuel. A mighty crop of wheat remains not more than fifty cents per bushel. The prices of cattle are disastrous. He sold for one and a half or two cents per pound, while the butcher pays for them eight to eleven cents. Railroaders absorb fifty per cent of value in transportation, and he is left in debt. If he does not see all the advantages of this one thing he does see the disadvantages. He has no money for transportation in order to pay dividends on an enormous capitalization, or pay the interest on excessive issues of mortgage bonds. If they were capitalized at their actual cost, no large earnings would be necessary, and charges of transportation could be reduced to his benefit.

These farmers are not only discontented, but they are also, sometimes and distinctively attached. Its salutary and land loan scheme is as absurd, that it receives and merits ridicule and contempt. But already, the evidence is that these things are also to be abandoned. The would be wit of the average newspaper is poking his fun at the "hayseed" and the foolish fool of the city enjoys the larger and even smarter than in the business world is apt to place a low estimate on the intelligence of the farmer. But the truth is the farmer is a wider reader than he.
The confuses himself to the current news of the day, the market reports, questions of commercial law and the like, while the other studies economics, questions of the larger world, sciences and the policies of government. The one leads a more intense life in a narrow circle; the other, slow to be sure, yet has made great advancement in his rank and are recruited the new forces of our social business and professional life, which rescue us from decay, insinuate our vigor in all the departments of life.

A campaign of education of the farmer has been persistently pressed since the days of the Grange. In all those years, he has made great advancement in science and economic questions, and is much better informed now than he was in former times. Among other things he has learned the power of organization. He has been inspired with a strong confidence in his own resources, and has faith in his own capacities for government he never had before. It is far more ready now to be aggressive than at any former period of our history. It is therefore to be expected that this farmer's movement will in the near future be the first signs of conscience the legislation of the land, both State and Federal, as to operate radical changes in our business economy.

The organization is too large, the reserves are too great, to be answered in the way, or treated with indifference.
The immense wave in favor of the new Constitution in our State, received its impetus from the Alliance and the spirit of the times. All labor organizations are in sympathy with its spirit, and we are confronted with a situation unlike any we would have before in our history.

He is, as yet, troubled in his ranks as to his triumph of fight. He is divided
through a political party now existing.
He sees that the legislative party is
is advanced in detail on the great Re-
in Kansas, he is sharpening his knife
Canal Company on worthless bonds,
power through the Republican party,
which has all along been in trusted agent,

Where is Heaven?

"What is Heaven?" "Child, how can I tell Of the beauty that reveals the City of God?
My eyes have not seen it, my feet have not trod Its golden paved streets and its jeweled paths.

Outshine and outvalue the jewels of earth.
And where is Heaven? I know only this:
'Tis the harbinger of glory; the entrance of bliss."
"Where is Heaven?" "Dear, how do I know?
We gaze into space through the blue throbbing air.

Sun-crowned and star-gemmed, and we say, 'It is here.' Above and beyond sea, more high and more God's palace, where does not our beautiful sky,
And where is Heaven? I know only this:
'Tis the harbinger of glory; the entrance of bliss."

The Newspaper as an Educator.
Any boy or girl who reads a newspaper takes the trouble to look up and familiarize himself or herself with the location of all the places mentioned, and has a pretty thorough knowledge of geography by the end of the year, without having worked very hard for it.
The news makes the geography interesting and faces localities in the memory as no study of text books and atlas can.—Springfield Union.

A Success.

Royal Germetizer is established as a remarkable success. Thousands of testimonials attest its virtue. Many of these are given by men and women of the highest standing in the most honored walks of life.

In the midst of a flourishing and rapidly increasing business, the price is reduced from $1.50 to $1 per bottle. This is done in the interest of those whose circumstances in life deter them from paying the higher price. The rich will buy it at any price, but the managers feel that a medicine which possesses such wonderful powers should be placed within the reach of the poor. Many have said that Germetizer was the cheapest medicine on the market. When it remembered that a bottle of Germetizer makes a gallon of medicine really for use, it is certainly cheaper than ordinary medicine in a bulk, and when the powers of the medicine are taken into account, the price amounts to almost nothing.

Germetizer is the coming success that has already come. Ask your druggist for it, and if he cannot supply you write to Iola E. Woods spent Sunday at Mr. C. E. Richardson, of Union Star. J. E. Keith has made some valuable improvements to his property on the hill. Mr. Henry Crittenden, of Greenville, Miss., was here yesterday visiting relatives. Mrs. C. T. Sutton and children, of Owensboro, are visiting Miss Jennie Keith. Mr. Jo. Pell and Miss Lila Adams, of Louisville, spent Sunday with Miss Lilla Hellet. Chris. Ahl got his hand very badly crushed in a threshing machine last week. Miss Sadie Gabbert, of Uden, Daviess county, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. C. D. Temple. Gil Roth, freeman L. St. L. C., went to Indianapolis Monday on a short leave of absence. St. J. Roberts has begun building a barn and dwelling on the pike near his old home. Miss Rosal Polk, of Tolinport, spent several days in the city visiting friends and relatives. Doctor L. W. German, of Louisville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Cotnam last week. Prof. Gus. Brown and Miss Anna Ball are attending the Institute at Harbington this week. One of the finest crops of tobacco we have seen is on the pike. It belongs to George Curran. Good butter, fresh butter, delivered any where in the city at 15 cts. a pound at Fella & Gregory's. Miss Alma Miller left Friday for an extended visit to friends in Louisville, New Albany and Indianapolis. Mr. J. H. Evans, of Greenville, is visiting their relatives, Mrs. C. D. Temple. Mr. William Beavin and wife, of near Harbington, were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Robt. Polk, last week. Miss Flora Smith, of Cannon, Ind., who has been visiting Miss Maggie Farber, returned home Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Beard, of Harbington, spent last Thursday in town the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hull. Hayne's saloon was broken open Monday night and the drawer robbed of $3. Henry Bous is accused of the theft. Mr. Courtney V. Duncan, of Louisville, spent Sunday the guest of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Duncan. Mr. M. Lythan, of Webster, was a passenger on the train Monday morning (Sunday's) sale of fine cattle. Mr. Lythan says the corn crop in his section is suffering very much for rain and will not be anything like a full crop.

Miss Mary Allen went to Louisville Monday. From there she spent some time to spend several days visiting friends. A little four year old child of Andy Voss, living near Webdon, died very suddenly Monday evening, with meningitis. Miss Jane Keith after a very pleasant visit to relatives in Owensboro, returned home last week accompanied by her brother, Samuel Keith. In fifteen years travel over the pike to Harbington we have never seen a finer corn crop along that road. It is equal to any of the river bottom crops. Do you want peaches, grapes or any other kind of fruit to can, leave your orders with Fella & Gregory and get your fruit any day you want it. Jas. H. Moorman a former compositor on the News and now of Augusta (Ga.), is at home on a short visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Moorman. A first-class male teacher is wanted in school district No. 31, Meade county. For particulars write Julius McElroy or John K. Ditto Harbington, Ky. Mrs. F. N. Dillig, Jose H. Miller and O. T. Skillman leave on the excursion to-day for Old Point Comfort and the East. They will be absent about three weeks. There will be an entertainment given at Mrs. Dr. Kurtz's, Webster, next Saturday evening for the benefit of the Methodist church in that place. Diapers, gowns, etc., will be the order of the exercise. Mrs. W. L. Huckleby an old subscriber at Cleveland, Florida, in renewing her subscription says: "The News is really a letter from home and we could not get along without it. Glad to see the prosperity of the city of my birth". The third kiln at the brick plant was opened up yesterday and proved to be one of the most successful kilns yet burned. The brick are all thoroughly vitrified and show up splendidly. Rev. O. J. Young commenced a series of meetings at the Tar Fork church Sunday. He will preach the funeral of Mr. J. B. Bae's little daughter next Sunday. Miss Catherine Bowmer, Miss Nancy Murray, Messrs. W. S. Bowmer, Mr. Stephens and Jesse W. Owen composed a party that went to the Falls of Rough Monday to spend a week, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Green. The finest specimen of early rose potatoes we have seen this season were sent to this office by John J. S. Wilkison of this city, and grown in his garden. Mrs. R. R. Pierce also sent us a specimen group of very fine tomatoes, of the No. 40 variety, for which a prize is offered by the seedman for the most perfect specimen. The four tomatoes sent in weighed three pounds, six ounces and a half. Jas. W. Moorman, colored, has let the contract for a $500 dwelling to be built on his lot near the mill. He has a strict economy and hard work saved up money enough and with the aid given him by the Interstate Building & Loan Association is able to build him a nice, comfortable home. If more of our colored men would take a lesson from him they would make good citizens, be of some benefit to themselves, their race and the community in which they live. The deeds to the land for the third brick plant were all signed up Monday, and the money paid over. The City Council has granted right of way for switches and there is nothing now in the way to prevent its establishment. The deeds were made to P. P. Haygood, Irvington, who has ample capital backing him to insure a first-class plant. The plans of the company have not been made public, but enough has been given out to warrant us in saying that it will be a very valuable enterprise for this town. The ladies of the Methodist church gave Mrs. W. C. Brandon such a pleasant surprise at the parsonage yesterday. Quite a number of them dropped in early in the morning, each with their lunch, and the day was spent in preparing Mrs. Brandon's wardrobe for the Annual Conference. It goes without saying that there was a good deal of work done, for they had the day entirely to themselves and were not bothered by husbands, who were politely informed to stay at home. There being no men around, and as women never talk to each other they could do nothing else but work. The ladies are to be commended for their thoughtfulness in leaving their husbands at home.—A Leftover Husband. You Take No Risk. In buying Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is everywhere recognized as the best blood purifier and blood purifier. It has won its way to the front by its own intrinsic merit, and has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Any honest druggist will confirm its value. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy anything else instead. Be sure to get Hood's. Good Things In August Wide Awake. The three poems—the ballad by Harriet Prescott Spofford, "Pope's Mother at Trillick"; the "Ballad Song" by El Shepherd; and "The Burgher Bee" by Richard Burton; and the three stories—"Pope's Little Chair," by Sarah Owen Jewett; "The Bride's Bonnet," by Grace W. Seper; and "The Silent Life" by Francis K. Leupp; the three articles—"How the Camels Play Polo," by Madame de Meisner; "An Old Set," by Eleanor Lewis; and "Brown's Playhouse," by J. Losley Rhee; the Margaret-Patty Letter, by Mrs. William Chaffin; "An Uncommon Opinion," by Helen Sewell; "The Burgher Bee," by Margaret Sidney; Elizabeth Cummings and Marietta Ambros, and the four pages of original anecdotes in "Men and Things." I awoke in the 22nd of a year. D. Lotrop Company, Boston.

BURAS. The election was very quiet here. Little Julia Meyer spent last week in Custer. In FULL BLAST. One hundred and thirty Louisville tailors are busily at work plying the needle on our new Fall and Winter stock of Suits, Overcoats and Pantalones, which we are manufacturing here at home. We are paying out thousands of dollars for home labor, every dollar of which circulates among our own people. Julius Winter & Co. Louisville, Ky. 8 E. COR. THIRD AND MARKET STS.

HARNED. Crops look well. Mr. H. H. Harned is flying call this week. The election is over and all are satisfied. Dr. Ben Harned called on us Monday night. Mrs. Clarence Parsons and children, of Louisville, visited Mrs. Wm. Dooley last week. Miss Etta English returned home last Friday, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Ella Hendrick. Mrs. Janus McGee, of the Lower Lorton, and Mrs. Hattie Grinnell, of Brandenburg, were in this community several days last week visiting friends. A FRIGHTFUL RUNAWAY. A Persian Barber works in a style very different from that in vogue in this country. A typical shop was a square room, with one side open to the street. In the center was a tiny bed of flowers sunk in the floor, from the middle of which rose an octagonal stone column about three feet high. The capital of the column formed a receptacle for the water in which the barber dipped his hand as he shaved his customer's scalp. In Persian they do not bathe. The shop was very clean. In two recesses stood four vases filled with flowers, and the implements of the barber's art—scissors, razors, lancets, hand mirrors, large pinners to extract teeth, bristles from a cat's back, and a small mirror, the presentation of which to the customer is a sign that the job is finished and that the barber waits for his pay. The barber shaves the heads of all customers, dyes their beards, pulls their teeth, blisters and bleeds them when ailing, sets their broken bones, and slaps their bodies.—Exchange. SEE AGAIN AS IN YOUTH! A. R. FISHER, Druggist & Optician. CLOVERPORT, KY.

Sulzer's BARGAIN FACTORY RUNS FULL TIME IN AUGUST. The Sara Bernhardt engagement at the Auditorium, will be one of the most brilliant engagements that has ever taken place there. It will be a most notable event in the dramatic line. Like all previous engagements at this great place of amusement, everything has been and is being done to make the engagement a most brilliant one. The scenery has been especially prepared for the productions of "La Tosca" and "Feldora," and beautiful beyond description, far surpassing the gorgeous productions given during the great Fall engagement of last year. In securing this attraction, the management of the Auditorium maintains the motto of the Auditorium, "Only for Great Attractions," and certainly there is no more brilliant attraction added to the list than Sara Bernhardt, the Queen of Tragedy, the greatest of modern actresses. This engagement of the divine Sara, will be the only opportunity to see her, as after this tour, she returns to France, probably never to be seen again in America. Those desiring information in regard to prices etc., should write to James B. Camp, Business Manager, P. O. Box 63, Louisville, Ky. GET THE BEST. The best is good enough for this discriminating client. The best is good enough for the man who respects himself and loves his family. Such a man always wants the best Groceries, and buys them from R. E. MOORMAN, knowing that he always gets the best that the market affords and retails them at proper prices.

"NOT IN IT." This will be the answer of our competitors if they are asked to meet our prices which simply defy COMPETITION! We will make BIG CUTS In our DRY GOODS DEPARTMENT. SHOES we have always kept the lead for style, quality and price, and this week extra efforts will be taken to suit all. OUR CLOTHING ROOM is being marked down, for they must be sold. All other lines are going at extremely low prices to make room for others. B. F. BEARD & CO., HARDINSBURG, KY. Summer Excursion Rates to Cloverport For Tar Springs.
